SURPENSION OF WEST OF ENGLAND AND SOUTH WALES BANK.

BRISTOL December S.—The directors of the West of England South Wales District Bank issued a circular to-day (Sunday) announcing the suspension of the bank, owing to the drain on its deposits, caused by the persistent and often unjustifiable adverse rumors which have been circulated for weeks past. They say the books show that the bank is solvent. The directors hope to reconstruct the bank. The utmost consternation prevails in South Wales.

LONDON, December 8.—The West of England and South Wales District Bank had 42 branches. Its liabilities are $17,500,-000. Its assets are stated at the same amount, but as they consist of local bills, which are not negotiable in London, the Bank of England refused to advance upon them. The run upon the bank for the last few days has been so persistent that the cash in hand is admitted to be only $1,527,000. The shareholders number two thousand and their liability is unlimited. lars are as follows: Mr. Richard Houtnam, a well-to-do farmer, resides about one mile west of Hillside, his family consisting of himself and wife, a son Joseph, aged about 21 years, Mary, aged about 18, and two younger daughters. Last evening the father and mother were absent from home and Joseph started fer a spelling-school, leaving his three sisters at home. He promised to be home early, and before istarting, warned his sisters to be on their guard against tramps, a number of whom had been infesting the neighborhood for some time. Mary, who was a very courageous girl, said she was not afraid, and the brother departed.

About nine o'clock the dogs commenced a furious barking, and Mary, who had not yet retired, decided to go to the front door to ascertain the cause. Just as she opened the door, she observed a man walking toward her with hat drawn down and his coat-collar turned up, so as to effectually conceal his face. She called, "Joe, is that you?" Not receiving any response, she repeated the inquiry, and not receiving a reply, she said, "If that's not you, Joe, look out." The repeated warning ellicited no response, and the girl, seeing the supposed tramp still advancing, leveled a heavily-loaded shot-gun which she held in her hand, and fired. The shot struck the man in the breast, and her horror may be imagined when she saw him throw up his hands, and almost shrick, "My dear sister!" and then fall to the ground. She recognized the voice as that of her brother, and rushed out and pulled him into the house. The unfortunate young man was unable to speak, and before the family physician had reached the house, death had ensued.

An examination showed that the entire charge had entered the breast and penetrated the lungs. It is supposed that the brother had intended to test the courage of his sister, but it proved a fatal test. The sister is spoken of as a most estimable lady, and the terrible shock which followed the discovery that she had killed her brother.

The news of the tragedy spread rapidly from house to house. In a shor time the house was crowded with neigh bors anxious to render any assistance in their power. The terrible results which have followed this attempt will probably prevent others from indulging in any inclination to test the courage of a female who may be left alone in a house.

Financial Review.

Ngw York, December 7.—The events of the week in financial circles were important in several respects. The Money market was more active at intervals, with an advance in rates of interest. Borrowers on call were supplied at 2½ to 8 per cent, with the bulk of business at 3st per cent. The sudden wiping out of one-third of the surplus reserve of the banks this week had an unfavorable influence on the Stock Exchange, as it was hoped that the banks would be in a stronger instead of weaker position to aid resumption. The foreign exchanges were firmer and advanced a fraction, partly on account of the depression, in the London marker consequent upon a renewal of bank difficulties; and speculation in the the Gold Room was less active than last week, and declined from 100½ to 100½. Government Bonds were lower early in the week, capecially for 195%, but the market was firmer in late dealings. Railroad Bonds were actively trailed in, and the course of prices was irregulated.
